ACCIDENTS TAKE TWO LIVES

Automobile Kills Ten-Year-Old Child—Fall in Roger's Brook Fatal to Town Employee—Two Auto Accidents on Reading Road

Daniel O'Brien, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius O'Brien of 50 Maple avenue, died at the Lawrence General Hospital as the result of a fractured skull received when he was struck and knocked down by a machine driven by Mrs. Paul Abbott of Hartford, Conn., about 11.45 o'clock Monday morning, on Elm street

According to the Andover police the O'Brien youth jumped from a milk wagon, owned by the Burton farm, on which he had been riding. The milk wagon stopped at the corner of Elm street and Walnut avenue; the youth alighted and started down the avenue towards Maple avenue to his home.

The machine driven by Mrs. Abbott and owned by J. William Stark of Ballardvale, was coming from North Andover and struck the boy as he stepped from behind the team. Mr. Abbott took the injured boy to the office of Dr. Blake who ordered him to be removed to the hospital where he died a few minutes after admittance.

The driver of the car will be required to answer to a charge of manslaughter and a hearing will be held early next week.

David Eastwood of 52 Morton street, in attempting to cross Roger's Brook, near Whittier street, late Monday night, fell into the brook, sustaining a broken neck.

Mr. Eastwood had left his automobile on Whittier street and walked over to Mr. Lindholm's on Chestnut street to do an errand. He was returning to his own car, where his children waited for him, when the accident occurred.

Some one who was staying at the house of John Shattuck on Whittier court, saw him fall, and when she found he was unable to get up, summoned the police. Officer Saunders responded and he was assisted by several passersby, one of whom was an employee of the telephone company and able to give first aid. Upon the arrival of Dr. Look he pronounced the man dead, and Dr. Sargent of Lawrence later said that death was due to a broken neck.

Mr. Eastwood was forty-four years old and was employed by the highway department. He is survived by a wife and eight children, the youngest of whom is only two weeks old.

A bad smash-up occurred on the Reading road just south of the Elite filling station, Monday morning, when a car owned and operated by Carl F. Cameron of 96 Groveland street, Haverhill, going toward Reading, attempted to pass a truck and crashed into a Hudson coupe driven by Saul M. Goldberg of 17 Custer street, Lawrence, damaging the headlights, radiators, and steering gear of both cars.

SERVICE UNINTERRUPTED

Student Operators Carry on Work at Andover Exchange Following Walk-out of Fourteen Employees

In an interview with Fred G. Cheney, manager of the Lawrence district, he stated that within thirty-six hours of the time that the telephone operators left the Andover exchange, twenty-one new operators had been recruited and that at the present time the Andover office is able to take care of all local calls.

On Sunday morning at six o'clock one of the girls representing 14 operators notified the chief operator in Andover that they would not appear for work and had joined the Lawrence union. Four of the seventeen girls who are usually employed at the Andover exchange did return to work, and with the twenty-one new operators, were organized under O. E. Hopkins of Oklahoma City, a loyal employee of the Bell Telephone in that city. Miss Lottie M. Hopkinson is chief operator and Miss Gertrude B. White supervisor.

Sunday, being a day when telephone service is not heavy, many subscribers were not aware that the strike was on, and an opportunity was given to get the new operators organized. It is now possible to take care of all local calls, but no toll calls are handled, except those of an emergency character. The forces are transported to and from their homes by automobile, and lunches are served in the office.

The management urges that until the operators are more experienced, the subscribers will refrain from making calls except where they are important.

Among those who have volunteered their services to maintain telephone service for the public is Mrs. Frank Hardy, wife of the chairman of the selectmen.

FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION

Bonfire, Sports, Baseball Game and Band Concert Entertain Crowds Gathered at Playstead—Lawrence C.Y.M.A. Wins at Baseball

The biggest bonfire ever seen on the Playstead, lighted promptly at midnight and enjoyed by hundreds of people on foot and in automobiles, ushered in the Glorious Fourth in Andover. Races were held in the forenoon and a baseball game between the Lawrence C.Y.M.A. and the Andover town team, resulting in a score of 16 to 1 in favor of the former, occupied the afternoon.

A fine concert by the Arlington Mills band attracted a large crowd to the park in the evening. At intermission a five-dollar gold piece was given to three-year-old Bruce Gairsin, the holder of the lucky tag.

The first event of the morning was an exhibition of horsemanship by George Morin, who has spent many years on the western plains and less than a year ago rode his horse "Skeeter", across the continent, from Wyoming to Massachusetts. The horse is well trained and responded perfectly when his master put him through his paces.

A little after ten o'clock Ballardvale and Shawsheen matched their strength in a tug of war. Although the men from Shawsheen far outweighed the boys from Ballardvale, and entered expecting to carry off the laurels, they were dragged over the line and Ballardvale was declared the winner and awarded the box of cigars, in spite of the protests of Shawsheen that the final decision should be to the winners of the best two out of three.

Those who took part in the tug of war were:

Shawsheen—John Buckley, R. Lowsie, J. Ruxton, Mike Caruso, J. Laycock, Albert Millane, S. Thompson, O. Currier.

Ballardvale—N. Townsend, H. Murphy, H. Adams, W. Waycott, R. Baker, J. Clinton, A. Stevenson, J. Goodwin.

The other events of the morning and the names of the prize winners were as follows:

Tug-of-War — won by Ballardvale

75-yd. dash, boys 9 to 14 — first, George Early; second, Albert Gibson.

75-yd. dash, girls 9 to 14 — first Etta Larkin; second, Gordon Coutts.

100-yd. dash, men and boys over 14 — first, Herbert Adams; second, Gordon Coutts.

100-yd. dash, women and girls over 14 — first, Gwendolyn Braddon; second, Frances Metcalf.

Shoe shuffle, boys 9 to 14 — first, Ernest Braddon; second, David Sime.

CAMP ANDOVER OPENS

Additional Equipment Offers Opportunities of Enlarged Service to Boys and Girls of Greater Boston

Camp Andover opened Tuesday for its fourth summer and forty boys from the different churches in and around Boston are in the first group to occupy the camp for the first two weeks.

There are several changes in the personela of the camp directors, but Rev. Frederick B. Withington, affectionately known as "Pop," will be in general charge as he has been since the camp was started in 1920. Miss Mary McCarthy will be in charge of the camp cooking as in previous years, and the boys are assured of good eats during their stay in camp. Benjamin Davis, one of the last years, counsellors, is back for another year and will be welcomed by the boys who have been in the camp before and are coming back this year.

Ned Aiken and Fred Latimer, Yale 1925, are also popular and familiar figures in the camp life.

The new leaders at the camp are Miss Helen Ordway, teacher of nature study; Philip Howard of the Harvard Medical School, who will supervise the health of the boys; and Donald MacNeil of the Bangor Theological Seminary, Edwin H. Hall, Yale 1926, who will act as camp counsellors. Miss Lucy Bridgman of the City Missionary offices in Boston will be in charge of the finances of the camp for the first month.

There have been two additions to the camp buildings since last year: one a small house which will be used for the equipment for nature study, and the other a wing added to the dining-room which will be used for entertainments and the accommodation of a larger group of young people. Nature study has been a part of the camp program for several seasons, but the new room which will contain books, jars for the preservation of specimens, and other peraphernalia for study, will make this department much more interesting.

Rex Ingram Films South Seas Story

Rex Ingram's latest production for Metro, "Where the Pavement Ends," is coming to the local Theatre on Monday and Tuesday. It is a tale of the ways of romance in that last outpost of romance — the South Seas. In this thrilling and realistic photoplay is pictured how love came to the lonely daughter of a missionary. Here is all the exotic beauty of the Soutern isles — here is the essence of strange and heart-filling romance translated to the screen by a master director.

The story was adapted by Rex Ingram from a story in John Russell's book, "Where the Pavement Ends," which has had an enormous sale. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle called the volume "the best book of short tales by any debutante since Kipling's 'Plain Tales.'" Mr. Russell acted in an advisory capacity during the filming of the story in Florida and declared himself highly pleased with the realism which Mr. Ingram obtained in the settings.

The fact that the picture was made by the director of "The Four Horsemen," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Trifling Women" is enough to assure fine artistry and high distinction. And here again Mr. Ingram has captured the true spirit of his story. And it is the living, intense spirit of a strange tale of a strange place, peopled by men and women who feel fully all human emotions.

The exceptional merit of the production is also attested by the particularly notable cast. Alice Terry and Ramon Novarro play the leading roles. Miss Terry will be remembered for the rare ability which she displayed in "The Four Horsemen" and "The Conquering Power." Mr. Navarro Rex Ingram's latest screen find, won the highest praise of movie-goers in "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Trifling Women." Edward Connelly and Harry T. Morey add new laurels to their distinguished reputations.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

The army of summer visitors stopping at or passing through Boston in July are availing themselves of the great dramatic motion picture treat afforded at the Majestic theatre in the presentation of Emerson Hough's Oregon trail classic, "The Covered Wagon," picturized by Paramount. The attraction has been before the public two months, yet the crowds are increasing and "The Covered Wagon" is a topic of conversation in many thousands of homes and at the beach or mountain resorts. This is because it is a story of descendants of New Englanders who seventy-five years ago embarked in prairie schooners or covered wagons on the 2000-mile trail for the conquest of the West. To every Yankee the epic has a vital interest; to those of foreign birth or extraction it shows how this country was upbuilt. A wonderful love romance, truly extraordinary Wild West adventure, tender sentiment and refined humor run through the epical picture which is embellished by a special stage and Frederick Arundel's lovely orchestral music. The acting of the principals, including Lois Wilson, J. Warren Kerrigan, Ernest Torrence and Tully Marshall, has not been equalled since the wonderful work of Walthall, Misses Gish, Cooper and Marsh in "The Birth of a Nation." On account of the enormous overhead expense of the special production, it will not be shown outside the Majestic, Boston, for two months to come, and then only in week-stand "legitimate" theatres. Performances are given twice daily, 2.15 and 8.15, except Sundays.

Automobile Trip to Salem Willows

The first of a series of automobile trips to the different points of interest in this vicinity was held last Friday evening under the direction of Miss Mary Geagan and Attorney Joseph L. Burns representing Court St. Monica and Andover council, Knights of Columbus. There were about seventy-five persons in the party which left the Knights of Columbus home at 7 o'clock, making the trip to Salem Willows by the way of Reading and Lynn.

Arriving at the destination the various amusements were enjoyed. Everyone partook of one of Chase's fish dinners, at tables reserved for them in advance. Dancing was also enjoyed during the evening. The trip home was made through Middleton, the party arriving in Andover shortly after 12 o'clock.

It has been planned to hold one of these trips each week during the summer.

PERCHES SAVE BIRDS' LIVES

Simple Idea Which Has Resulted in the Preservation of Thousands of Migrating Songsters.

Bird lovers in Great Britain will soon be watching for the return of the first migrants and those especially who live near the sea will remember the kindly thought of the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds in its work of providing resting places and perches on the lighthouses, without which great numbers flutter round and round the dazzling light until they fall.

It was thought at one time that the birds attracted by the light dashed against the glass, but the Dutch naturalist, Mr. Thijsse, discovered that they merely flew round and round the incomprehensible gleam, and he devised the plan of putting up a screen of perches above and below the light to which they might cling and rest before resuming their journey by daylight. The experiment was first tried at the great Terschelling light, where the destruction was reduced from a thousand in a night to a hundred in a season.

The Bird Protection society has now set up these perches on four English lighthouses: The Caskets, St. Catherine's, Spurn Head lighthouse and the South Bishop lighthouse. Each equipment costs £100 and £20 a year upkeep. The society hopes, as funds allow, to extend the plan to other lighthouses, where many thousands of birds are still falling every migration season.—Christian Science Monitor.

Big Task for Britain.

The war debt Great Britain agrees to pay the United States is $4,604,128,085.

That is $317,005,198 more than the value of all the gold and silver in the United States in 1922—$4,287,122,287, says Capper's Weekly.

It is $2,802,228,085 more than the value of last year's corn crop in the United States—$1,802,900,000.

It is $3,411,128,085 greater than the value of last year's cotton crop in the United States—$1,192,461,000.

It is $2,951,830,485 greater than the value of last year's coal production in the United States—$1,651,228,600.

It is $3,563,501,803 greater than the total value of last year's South African diamond production—$1,040,626,272.

Sells-Floto Circus in Lawrence

There was a time when tinsel and spangles made up the wardrobe of the circus. Nowadays, with the second largest show in the world—Sells-Floto and Buffalo Bill's Wild West combined—forty women, under the direction of Madame Gavin, designer from Poiret's, Paris, work all winter on custumes and animal robes that are to be used in the opening spectacle, alone,—"A Night in Persia." Thousands of dollars go into the making of garments, which will be worn but twenty minutes daily during the season, but the quality and beauty of the material used, its really exquisite designing, make for the greatest advertising the show can get. Women, especially women dramatic critics, say and write a lot of things that win friends for the big show, which comes to Lawrence Wednesday, July 11.

There are 1200 people and animals in "A Night in Persia", and all wear wardrobes of the Gavin design. Gems, silver and gold lace and embroidery are used freely, prodigally. "Every bit as costly as I used in my revues," said a big Broadway musical production impressario, speaking of the costumes, when he witnessed the spectacle in rehearsal. And where he uses a hundred at the most, the Sells-Floto management must invest in over a thousand.

A slogan of the Zionist movement is: "Lead the people without a country to the country without a people."

Campaign Against Game-Destroying Birds and Animals

The Andover Fish and Game Club is considering undertaking a campaign against game destroying birds and animals, which is being participated in by sportsmen all over the country. The movement is being supported by game wardens, national conservation organizations and naturalists. Local sportsmen feel that the formation of clubs to hunt down vermin, as predatory birds and animals are known, would be one of the best things that could happen locally for game conservation.

The common crow is one of the worst of all game destroyers. The Board of Game Commissioners of Pennsylvania state that, "he destroys individually more birds of all kinds, more birds' eggs and young poultry than any other bird that flapped a wing." It is estimated that every crow destroys at least ten of the eggs or young of insect-eating birds, and at least one of game birds during the season, so that by killing him off, a real service is done agricultural and game preservation.

Naturalists say that for every game bird shot in season by sportsmen, there are at least ten killed by such birds and beasts of prey. Wild ducks are a prey to destroyers, and it has been estimated that only one out of sixty of these useful birds live to reach a matured age.

The great horned owl is another bird of prey, so voracious and destructive to useful wild life that he should be killed whenever found. This species annually destroys large numbers of partridges, pheasants, fur-bearing animals, rabbits, other game and poultry. It is especially an enemy of quail. Every lover of birds knows how the quail covey sleeps — in a little circle on the ground — each night in about the same spot. Let a great horned owl once discover the sleeping place of a covey of quail, and he will "clean them up" to the very last bird.

Noxious hawks are another specie, which take a heavy toll from the farms each year. Two of these, Cooper's hawk and the sharp-shinned hawk, which might be called a miniature of Cooper's hawk, are ferocious predatory birds of prey, ranging nearly everywhere throughout the country and the damage they do is estimated, in the aggregate, to exceed that done by nearly all other birds of prey. Remains of wild birds and poultry were found in nearly every stomach of Cooper's hawk examined by the Biological Survey. When the stomachs of 107 sharp-shinned hawks were examined, it was found that 105 of them contained birds, ranging from quail, morning doves and flickers — which are as large as the sharp-shinned hawk itself — down to birds as small as warblers and chickadees. These hawks kill the birds most valuable to farmers.

Foxes, weasels, red squirrels, and in cases, vagrant house cats, are the most conspicuous offenders among the quadrupeds. The characteristics of the weasel are well known. He will kill for the mere joy of slaughter, whether he wants food or not. The presence of weasels, red squirrels and foxes means that the game birds and poultry must pay their board bill.

At the present season it is especially important to protect the young of game and other beneficial wild birds, and great numbers of them can be saved if their natural enemies are checked now.

Suggestions for forming a Vermin Hunting club are as follows:

Every person owning a gun is eligible to be a member.

Charge no membership fee unless it is necessary.

Make rules that are best suited to your location.

Select two men to serve as Team Captains.

Let each Captain select his team.

Have Vermin shooting team races; these races cover one to ten or more days; team races for dinners, losing team to pay for all; County and Inter-county team races; Township and Inter-township team races; City and Inter-city team races; Borough and Inter-borough team races; Gun Club and Inter-Gun club team races; Secret Society and Inter-secret Society team races; team races of any kind that will create interest.

Offer prizes for high daily individual score.

Offer prizes for high team final scores.

Offer prizes for High Man on each team final score.

The following is a list of suggested points to be given to contestants in figuring their scores on amount and kind of vermin sho', these points to be used in awarding prizes to the contestants should any prizes be awarded or donated by interested parties. These figures could be altered to suit local conditions.

	Points
Sharp-Shinned Hawk	5
Cooper's Hawk	5
Goshawk	5
Crow	1
Great Horned Owl	5
Weasel	3
Bob Cat	25
Red Squirrel	2

Extra Award Of Points

Killing 25 Crows in one day, 15 points extra; 3 Hawks in one day, 5 points extra; 3 Owls in one day, 5 points extra; 3 Bob Cats in one day, 25 points extra; 5 Weasels in one day, 10 points extra; 5 Red Squirrels in one day, 5 points extra.

Contestants will receive credit for all fractions of the numbers killed over the above amount; for example, if a contestant killed 35 crows he would be entitled to 35 points plus 15 points for having killed 25 or more plus the pro rata share of the extra ten killed which would be 2—5 of 15 or 6, making the following total:—35 plus 15 plus 6 equal 56 points in all.

Every club and club member should adopt these rules:

1. I will not commit an unsportsmanlike deed of any kind.
2. I will not shoot or disturb game out of season.
3. I will treat other persons' property with as much or more respect than I would treat my own.
4. I will not trespass on any posted property without the owner's consent.
5. I will observe all State and Federal Game Laws and assist in the enforcement of same.
6. I will observe property owners' rights by closing gates, replacing fences and will not disturb stone walls or other material unless absolutely necessary and will endeavor to replace same in its original condition.
7. I will not molest, abuse or intimidate any domestic animals or poultry and will avoid putting them in jeopardy in any manner.

German buyers are boycotting the world-famed costumiers of Paris. The French designers admit that, since the occupation of the Ruhr by French troops, the import of French models by Germany has dwindled. Many Berlin firms are producing their own fashions which they present to the buyers by means of skillful mannequins.

Farming schools for women and girls are now operating in Germany. The pupils are taught the household and other duties which are the share of women on farms.

Andover Boy Becomes a Priest

Rev. Francis S. Boland, recently ordained a priest at Notre Dame, Indiana, celebrated his first mass on Sunday morning in St. Augustine's church. The church, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion, was filled with relatives and friends of the young priest. Seated in the sanctuary were the arch priest, Rev. T. P. Fogarty, O.S.A.; the deacon, Rev. P. J. Campbell, O.S.A.; and the sub-deacon, Rev. Michael Mulcare, C.S.C., who also preached the sermon. Rev. John A. Nugent was also present.

The choir, under the direction of Miss Annie G. Donovan, organist, sang Mozart's Twelfth Mass, the solos being rendered by Miss Anna Hennessey, soprano; James Stewart, tenor, and John Higgins, bass. At the offertory Joseph Donovan of Lawrence sang the Juravit, and at the post communion Mr. Clough of Lynn sang Schubert's Ave Marie.

A reception was held at the home of Father Boland on Orchard street, where he received the best wishes of many friends in his chosen life work.

Father Boland was born in Everett but came to Andover at an early age.

He went two years to Punchard High School, and finished his preparatory education in Notre Dame, where he also took a college course, graduating in 1918. For the past four years he has been studying at the Catholic University at Washington, D. C. He will stay at his home in town for the month of July and then will receive his appointment.

Rudyard Kipling on Thrift

All the money in the world is no use to a man or his country if he spends it as fast as he makes it. All he has left is his bills and the reputation of being a fool, which he can get much more cheaply in other ways.

There's nothing fine or funny in throwing away cash on things you don't want merely because the cash is there. We've all done it in our time, and we've all had to pay for it. The man who says he never worries about money is the man who has to worry about it most in the long run, and goodness knows there's enough worry in the world already without our going out of the way to add to it.

Savings represent much more than their mere money value. They are proof that the saver is worth something in himself. Any fool can waste, any fool can muddle; but it takes something of a man to save, and the more he saves, the more of a man does it make of him. Waste and extravagance unsettle a man's mind for every crisis; thrift, which means some form of self-restraint and continence, steadies it.

The nation is divided into three classes—home-lovers, auto-dwellers and residents of motion picture theatres.

Gift to Phillips Academy

The trustees of Phillips academy have just received an anonymous gift of ten thousand dollars, which is to be devoted to the improvement of the grounds around the new main building. Extensive grading and tree planting will be carried on during the summer under the direction of Olmstead brothers of Boston and Charles Platt of New York.

Founders Day, which has not been celebrated since 1915 will be revived this year on October 5, at which time the Memorial tower with its chimes will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies.

The faculty prize which is awarded annually to that member of the senior class who maintains the highest average scholarship, has recently been made permanent through a gift of one thousand dollars from Sanford H. Freund, 1896, of New York city. The income of the gift is to be used to perpetuate a prize of fifty dollars.

Relief Corps at Salem Willows

More than fifty members of the local Women's Relief Corps and their friends enjoyed an outing at Salem Willows on Saturday, making the trip in Buchan's and Morrissey's trucks.

Arriving at the Willows the various amusements were enjoyed and at noon a fish dinner at Ebson's was a welcome treat. The return trip was made about 7 o'clock, arriving in Andover a little after 8 o'clock.

The "Glorious Fourth"

Varying opinions have been expressed as to the success of Andover's celebration of the "Glorious Fourth". Originally it was planned to leave the matter in the hands of the Chamber of Commerce, but the Legion seemed so desirous of shouldering the burden that details were finally left entirely in their hands. Many people feel that the reason for the failure of the celebration to please universally was not so much due to any lack of desire on the part of the Legion to make it a successful time, but rather it was due to a lack of co-operation and adequate planning sufficiently in advance to secure a smooth-running schedule. The Townsman would have liked to see the Chamber carry through the celebration, particularly since the speaker from Stoneham stirred so much enthusiasm at the opening meeting by his description of the huge success of the celebration engineered by the organization in that town.

Reading, a town with no more capable men in it than we have in Andover, a town with a smaller population than we have, put across a celebration this year which was worthy of co-operative effort from every citizen. The celebration was not expensive, it was well advertised, it brought thousands of people to Reading during the day, stimulated interest in Reading real estate, made business for Reading merchants. It was a success. It succeeded because each event of the day was carefully planned months ahead, each member of the committee had his own job and the labor of organizing was well distributed. You can't build a smooth-running celebration of the Fourth of July by saying, "Well, we'll have a bonfire at midnight, we'll have a baseball game in the morning, sports in the afternoon, and a band concert at night." True, it sounds as if there was going to be something doing every minute of the day, and the above statement is as good as any, on which to make a start; but the results of leaving the matter in the same condition were clearly shown last Wednesday.

Mention must be made, in a general way, of several men who jumped into the breach during the different dull spots and kept things going when they looked as if they might fall through altogether. Some of these very men would have made admirable moving spirits in the original planning of the day's events. Whatever we do next year, may we at least take a lesson from our neighbor to the south and obtain the full cooperation of the entire town before we attempt any planning at all.

Pitiful Inefficiency

Several years ago when interest ran high for the securing of a Lungmotor for the use of the fire department in accidents of fire or drowning, the town secured a fully equipped machine to be used in the resuscitation of such cases. The machine was stored in the Fire House for some time before there appeared any occasion for its use. A year or so after its purchase, it was called into use at a drowning accident at Pomps pond. When it arrived on the scene, it was discovered that no one present, not excepting the firemen who had brought it, knew how it should be used. At the time no great disturbance was occasioned by this lack of knowledge, since it was thought that the person drowned had been under water too long to make the use of the machine effective in any way.

During the past week, the machine was again called for, at the extremely unfortunate occurrence which resulted in the death of David Eastwood. It was found that the Lungmotor was not in condition for use att his time because of lack of certain parts of its equipment, but fortunately the doctor who attended the case rendered a decision that it would not have been effective since death was due to other causes than drowning. Hence no intimation was given as to whether any further information on the workings of the machine has been absorbed by the members of the fire and police departments. The Townsman mentions these two evidences of rather pitiful inefficiency, with the hope that public recognition of the existing situation may help to cause the heads of the two departments to take steps to correct it.

Editorial Cinder

Andover has lost a true-hearted public servant in the death of Dr. Edward C. Conroy. Almost since the time when he obtained his degree from the University of Maryland, he has been a resident of Andover and always since that time he has been vitally interested in the town's affairs. Twelve years ago, Dr. Conroy began to serve the town as a member of the school committee. In that period, his work for the town has always been characterized by a genuine affection for the children whose education he aided in supervising, and while the town has not always agreed fully with his opinions, it has always respected them. An earnest man, a man who endeared himself to the entire town, Dr. Conroy has made a lasting impression on the life of Andover.

Notice

The Andover Board of Public Works requests that citizens of the town report to them any places on the reads about Andover which need repairs.

Historical Society to Hold Loan Exhibit

A loan exhibition of antiques is being planned by the Andover Historical Society, to take place in the Town hall on Wednesday and Thursday, September 26 and 27, from two to ten o'clock.

Miss Alice Jenkins is chairman of the general committee, other members of which are Mrs. Estelle Henry and J. Duke Smith. This committee will be assisted by numerous sub-committees which will have charge of the several exhibits which are announced as follows: Portraits, silhouettes and miniatures; historical pictures and Andover samplers; shawls, coverlets and rugs; historical relics; silver, pewter and brass; jewelry, fans, combs and lace; glass, china and stoneware; furniture; miscellaneous; industrial objects; wrought iron and lanterns; Andover publications.

All articles will be carefully labelled and catalogued under the direction of the chairmen of the sub-committees. A watchman will guard the exhibits at night and all articles will be insured.

A colonial tea will be given both afternoons and a pageant of fashions is planned for the evenings.

A sale of historical and antique material, conducted by Andover people has also been planned for. A percentage of the receipts will be retained by the society.

Everyone, whether or not a member of the society is asked to loan articles of interest and to communicate concerning them with some members of the committee.

FATAL ACCIDENTS

Mrs. Hubner, who was driving with Goldberg, was cut by flying glass and carried to Dr. Bloomberg's for first aid

The registration under which the Hudson coupe was driven was in the name of Harold C. Sherman, Little River, Westfield, and was for a 1921 Chevrolet.

The Hudson car, which was coming toward Andover, was said to be well over on the right-hand side of the road.

Driving on the wrong side of the road near Baker's Turnout, according to the police, about ten o'clock Tuesday evening, a Buick five-passenger touring car, owned by Howard Stevenson of 40 Elm Park, Groveland, and operated by Anna B. Wiggin of 101 Elm Park, Groveland, struck a Ford touring car and then veering to the right, collided with a Star sedan. The three cars were badly damaged by the collision and Miss Wiggin was severely cut by flying glass about the neck and arms.

She was treated at the office of Dr. Blake of Main street and left for her home following the accident.

According to the police version of the accident the Buick machine was proceeding toward Reading, when it struck the Ford car, driven by L. B. Blancon, traveling in the opposite direction. The Star sedan was owned and operated by William J. Robinson of 197 Hilldale road, North Andover. Neither the occupants of the Ford nor Star cars were injured.

Obituary

DR. EDWARD C. CONROY

Dr. Edward C. Conroy, member of the Andover school committee, well-known physician of Andover, died early Wednesday morning at the Lawlor sanitarium, Methuen, following an operation. At a meeting of the school committee about a month ago, Dr. Conroy, while tilting back in his chair, fell and sustained bodily injuries which necessitated the operation. Death was unexpected as the operation, performed Monday, was considered successful.

He leaves a wife, Alice A. Conroy; two sons, Raymond S., a mining engineer in Mexico, and Augustine E., a senior at Tufts Medical College; one daughter, Miss Lillian S., a member of the faculty at Lexington High School.

Dr. Conroy was born in Neenagh, County Tipperary, Ireland, in 1860. He was one of the few men in this section who studied at Rockwell College, Dublin, and coming to this country studied at Loyola College, Baltimore, Md., taking the degrees A.B. and A.M. from this college. His medical education he received at the University of Maryland, receiving his medical degree in 1897. Since completing his medical education Dr. Conroy had practiced in Lawrence and Andover.

For twelve years he was a member of the Andover school committee, and for two years served as chairman of the board. He was tireless in his work for the children and the schools of the town and was always ready to sacrifice his time and strength in their behalf. Dr. Conroy was largely instrumental in securing a new school at Shawsheen Village, and had been named as chairman to supervise the construction of this school He was noted for many kind and generous acts, and his unlimited enthusiasm and interests in the affairs of the town made him extremely popular.

Dr. Conroy's fraternal affiliations were many. He was a member of Division 1, A.O.H., of Lawrence; Court Philip Sheridan, Catholic Order of America; vice-president of the Andover Club; Andover Council, 1078, K. of C.; Middlesex section of the American Medical Association; Holy Name Society of St. Augustine's church; honorary member of the Harvard Club of Andover.

The funeral will be held from his late home, 29 Essex street, Saturday morning. Solemn high mass of requiem will be sung at 10 o'clock in St. Augustine's church.

The burial will be in St. Augustine's cemetery, Andover.

Dr. Conroy's home is now open to his business associates and friends, who are also invited to attend the services at the church Saturday morning.

A Personal Tribute

Andover has suffered an irreparable loss in the death of Dr. Conroy, for his life was mortised into the very framework of our town. No citizen more than he gave unstintedly of time and thought to our fundamental interests.

Dr. Conroy was a big man, not only physically and mentally, but he had a big heart. His genuine affection for our children was the living spring of his intense and prolonged efforts on behalf of our schools. In this he saw the hope of the future well-being of our town and of the nation; for these he labored and sacrificed. He deplored the necessity for private schools to insure instruction in morals and religion, and he longed for the time when our public schools would be better able to provide for character-building along religious lines.

While a staunch Catholic, loyal to the highest spiritual guidance of his church, his interpretation of the spirit and teaching of Christ gave to him that broad catholicity which embraced every man and woman who sought sincerely to do God's will. It was this breadth of sympathy and genuine affection for his fellow townsmen, coupled with his untiring efforts on their behalf, that endeared him to the whole town and makes his removal from our midst an occasion for profound sorrow and regret.

Traffic Committee Attends Meetings in Interest of Better Street Car Sdrvice

The Traffic Committee of the Andover Chamber of Commerce has been attending the conferences held in Lawrence, of the neighboring towns of North Andover, Methuen, and Lawrence, with the Massachusetts Eastern Street Railway Company, in the interests of better service and possibly lower rates in some sections.

It is the desire of the committee that anybody having any complaints, or even any suggestions for the betterment of the service on the street car lines to Andover, will please register them with the secretary of the Chamber, so that the committee may be qualified to act at the next conference which will be held with the trustees of the road in attendance, within the next ten days.

The Board of Directors at their July meeting on Monday last, endorsed the attitude of the New England Telephone Company in their present controversy, by a vote of four to two, with three members of the Board not voting.

Further Plans for K. of C. Carnival

Since the forming of committees for the direction of the Knights of Columbus Carnival, rapid progress has been made toward completing plans for the affair. September 3, 4, and 5 have been chosen as the dates for the celebration, which will be held at the new K. of C. home on Chestnut street.

Tickets will go on sale early next week and the holder of each ticket will be entitled to participate in the presentation of many gifts. The council will present a Buick touring car, a Ford touring car, an electric washing machine, a chest of silver, a gold watch, a vacuum cleaner, several purses of cash, and a real ton of coal.

Present plans do not yet call for definite amusements, but the committee, chairmaned by Frank S. McDonald, plans to offer a different entertainment for each of the three nights of the carnival, and it has been definitely announced that Senator David I. Walsh will be among those present on the opening night.

C. Y. M. A. 16; Andover 1

The C. Y. M. A. pounded the offerings of two pitchers hard Wednesday afternoon on the Andover Playstead and defeated the Andover Collegians by the score of 16 to 1. Sullivan, who opposed the C. Y. M. A.'s in the first three innings, was touched up for five hits which were good for eight runs. Paul Dyer, who relieved him, was a little more effective but his offerings were also hit frequently during the remaining innings.

Bob Partridge led the attack against the Collegians with four hits, while lengthy bingles were turned in by Benny Hyde, Lindholm and Porter. Hyde's hitting figured prominently in the victory. Nelligan acquired the only extra base blow for the Collegians, a two-base knock to center.

Phil Riley, who was loaned to the Collegians by the C. Y. M. A., starred in the field with a couple of scintillating plays, one in particular in the first inning cutting off an apparent rally. Double plays by Nelligan, McCue and Brown were fielding features.

The Cymas started a rally in the second inning that netted them five runs. Brown reached on McCue's error. Trow singled to center and Brown went to third when Fallon let the drive get away from him. Hyde trippled to left center and scored both Brown and Trow. Bradley walked and Lindholm doubled to right center. Hyde had scored on an error by Jim Dyer, who in returning a throw to Sullivan tossed the ball low. Souter fanned and then Graney came through with a hit that brought Bradley over. Graney attempted to steal and Jim Dyer cut his throw through, with the result that Lindholm raced for home and scored. Graney was run down.

The Cymas continued to add in the third. They scored three more. With one down, Gus Brown smashed a home run into right, and with two away Hyde walked and Gus Bradley was hit by a pitched ball. Lindholm came to time with a triple to left and Hyde and Bradley scored.

Paul Dyer replaced Sullivan in the box for the Collegians in the fourth and three more runs registered. Graney was given a life on Nelligan's error. Porter walked and Partridge tripled to left, scoring both Graney and Porter. The next two batters went out and Hyde reached on McCue's error, Partridge scoring.

The Cymas added another in the fifth when Souter reached on Jim Dyer's error and after stealing third raced home on Sullivan's error.

Another pair of runs were realized by the Welch-managed aggregation in the sixth. Partridge opened with a single. Trow hit one through Nelligan and Hyde came through with his second triple, a wicked smash to right center, scoring Partridge and Trow.

The Andover aggregation scored their only run in their half of the sixth. After Nelligan reached on an error by Brown, he raced to third on other errors and scored on an error by Bradley.

Jim Welch, C. Y. M. A. manager, who has been on the cripled list directed the activities of his team from the bench. He expects to be back in the harness next week after a layoff of six weeks resulting from injuries he sustained at his employment. The box score:

HERE AND THERE

Two events stood out as high-lights in the annual gambols of O. B.'s fellow workers last Saturday at Dave's place "Braetop" (freely translated — "the summit of a hill which brazenly exposes its every inch to the warming rays of the glorious sun" —illustrating the effect of the outstanding characteristic of the Scottish race on their language) were the moral victory achieved by the single men in the ball game, after a great struggle, and the general feeling of lassitude which pervaded the shop on Monday morning.

"Lucinda" was champing her crankshaft and stamping her differential to be off long before 8.30, but she was restrained until nearly nine, even though the Black Maria got away to a flying start long before, with a cargo of living freight, ice, milk, "dogs" and B—r boxes. Lucy finally took the bit in her teeth however, and got under way with Big Bill and the latest addition to the Benedicts, both of whom vainly endeavored to restrain themselves from expressing their appreciation of Lucy's powers, throughout the ride. An hour or so after "Lucy's" arrival at "the summit of the hill, etc." the balance of the clan arrived, "Creeping Paralysis" (who gets her bed and board on Walnut avenue and of whom more later) bringing up the rear of the procession with a bevy of beautiful maidens.

The day did not lack in activity, baseball, soccer, swimming, eating and then more baseball and more soccer and more eating. The national pastime, rightly enough, occupied first place on the program. It was a game played under rather cramped circumstances. Our host assured us last year positively that the Society for the Improvement of General Health and the Development of Recreational Activities on Ipswich Neck would attend to the matter of providing suitable accommodations for baseball games. Possibly the society's name proved too heavy a burden for it to bear or perhaps the General Health needed too much attention. At any rate the field is still completely shrouded in healthy long grass, although our host has positively assured us that it will be in perfect condition for the game next year.

The Bachelors, whose ranks are being rapidly depleted, performed against the Benedicts, with Johnson in the box for the youngsters and Paine and Coutts officiating for the dead ones. Before the game, the Bachelors decided unanimously that it would not only be unfair, but would probably dull the day for the old boys, if they were not allowed to come out on the top side of the contest. With this end in view, the game opened, Umpire Cole officiating in his usual capable and just manner. In fact for a time, those who were determined to lose for a worthy cause, feared that he was altogether too just. As the end of the game drew near our spirits were greatly raised by several perfectly "raw" ones, evidently inspired by a gradual realization of our purpose in playing the game and a desire to help us realize our ambitions. The last inning was full of big-league stuff. Eight to five in favor of the Baches, it started. The Benedicts, with the assistance of several very well executed errors managed to garner four runs. Nine-eight with the Baches to bat. Every Benedict on his toes. Fair ladies grouped on the side lines, cheering with absolute impartiality. The odor of clams gaily disporting themselves in chowder floated from the windows of Braetop. Truly a scene to thrill even a state Senator.

A short rap to the infield. One out. Another ditto. Two out. And a third ditto. Three out, the game over, the happiness of victory glowing in the face of every perspiring Benedict, and the happiness of a moral victory shining from the face of every Bachelor. A marvelous scene.

Dinner.

Dinner at Braetop mat not be described. It is simply a period of time during which one absorbs not alone nourishment, but a gradual feeling of satisfied contentment which steals over one imperceptibly and which increases up to a certain point in direct proportion with the amount of food ntroduced into the system. There are clam chowders and Braetop clam chwders. The distinction is not a subtle one. The two are so different that they are not even comparable. It would be exposing a secret to hint at the amount of clam chowder consumed by some twenty-odd people at Braetop last Saturday. The pan was clean when everything was over.

What has been said about the chowder may well be repeated about the ham sandwiches. A ham sandwich is a very plebeian article. One is inclined to speak of a ham sandwich with a deprecatory tone of voice.

Not so with the 173 sandwiches. (Count guaranteed by our efficiency expert) which O. B. helped to consume. Six large voluminous ham sandwiches on top of three bowls of clam chowder may seem like quite a satisfactory meal but Dave's guests were not at all stumped. There was ice cream and cake, and of course some bananas. And tonic. No picnic would be complete without tonic. The chairman of the committee, Miss Efficiency, vainly endeavored to estimate the amount of tonic which would be required during the day. Last year the tonic gave out at noontime. She wanted to be on the safe side, of course, so this year doubled the quantity. Those of you who have ever bought tonic for a picnic know already when the tonic gave out. Exactly at noontime. O. B. assisted Jack in drinking the last champagne bottle of ginger ale.

While the afternoon was tonicless, the absence of beverage other than water did not seem to serve to dampen the spirits of the party. At three, two hours to the dot after the completion of the meal, seven doughty members of the clan sallied forth to plunge in the mighty deep, O. B., among them. Lucinda carried us down the hill without trouble and full of pleasant anticipation we crowded each other down the dock to stick in a toe before that first glorious plunge. One reads in the papers of crazy people who bathe daily in the Atlantic ocean throughout the entire year. One sees pictures of them breaking the ice and standing ready for a glorious, exhilarating plunge. An imaginative being can get a real shiver out of the thought of doing likewise. We who went for a swim that day needed no imagination. The plain fact stared us in the face,—cold water. No, not just plain ordinary cold water, the kind that one drinks on a hot day during a ball game and some motherly old lady warns us not to drink too rapidly. This was real honest-to-goodness cold water. The kind that even though one knows its going to be cold, is even colder than one supposes water could be and not have ice on top of it. Paralyzingly cold water, it was. We didn't swim. We just went in — after much careful consideration—and then came out—without any hesitation or consideration whatsoever. It was directly after coming out that O. B. shivering on the dock beneath a blazing sun lost his prize tooth, which is unfortunately located diabolically in the center of his mouth.

From then on, all words began with "f." Yes, it was cold water.

Then there was a boat ride. Down the Ipswich river we sailed, and up the Parker river. Then we sailed down the Parker river and up the Ipswich. In between times we paid an official visit to the sun parlor of Mr. and Mrs. Seal, who were having an afternoon tea for their friends and relations on the sand bar at the mouth of the rivers. Most of us had not seen seals in their native haunts before. None of the swimmers envied them very greatly.

Dogs, hot and juicy with tender skins and succulent innards. More ham sandwiches. More bananas. More water. Home.

Going home was where "Creeping Paralysis" came into her own. Whether stimulus came from its occupants or their respective positions, something endowed her with powers heretofore unsuspected. Starting at the end of the line and patiently following the rest through to Ipswich, she seemed to fly like a frightened gazelle once she felt the open road beneath her shoes. Thirty, thirty-five. Past the Fords like the Twentieth Century going past the station at "Smalltown, N. Y." Forty and then forty-five. Past the Buick and the Black Maria, Black Jack driving like mad and weeping to see one so young and undeveloped passing his beloved old lady. And so home, proud "Creeping" leading the way with her head up and her master smirking at all the Packards as if to say," Pretty smart little girl — pretty smart little driver, she may not be a Packard but she's mine, all mine."

For the uninformed, it is understood that the Scotch are noted for their tendency to conserve. (O. B. hated to explain.)

HEFFERAN—CHAPMAN

A quiet wedding took place on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, when Miss Catherine M. Chapman of Somerville was united in marriage to James J. Hafferan of Somerville, by Rev. Fr. Foley of St. Benedict's church. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Lombard.

Death

July 2, 1923, David C. Eastwood of 52 Morton street, aged 43 years, 7 months and 19 days.

Ahead of the Program

The Cinnaminson brass band gave a concert one night. The music wasn't very harmonious to start with, and it kept getting worse and worse. Finally a perfectly terrible number came. Such a crash and blare had never been heard before in Cinnaminson. The audience applauded politely, though the first cornet wiped his brow and muttered to the conductor:

"What's the next selection, pard?"

"The Maiden's Prayer," the conductor muttered back.

The first cornet looked startled.

"Holy smoke," he said, "I just been playin' the Maiden's Prayer."

A great step forward toward ending entirely the performing animal business in Great Britain has been taken by the law just passed by Parliament regarding the whole training and exhibition of animals. All trainers must register, their places open to inspection, no cruelty permitted, and no performances at all of chimpanzees and no anthropoid apes. In this England is about a thousand miles ahead of us.

More Valuable Than Gold

We are accustomed to thinking that gold is the most valuable metal in the world, with the exception of platinum. These two metals it is true, possess one characteristic which sets them apart from the commoner metals—their immunity to corrosion. Nevertheless, while gold is an accepted standard of value, the metal itself has contributed almost nothing to man's advancement. From the standpoint of usefulness, gold is handicapped by excessive weight, softness, low tensile strength, high electrical resistance, low heat conductivity. Even if we were to discover unlimited, easily workable deposits of gold, the effect would only be to throw the world's financial machinery out of gear.

If, on the other hand, we were to discover unlimited and easily workable deposits of copper, there is hardly a field of human endeavor that would not benefit. The telephone, the telegraph, and their younger brother, radio, all depend upon copper. Without copper there could be no brass or bronze. Lacking copper, there would be no such things as electric lights and electric motors; we could not proceed with electrification of railroads and development of water power.

Successful Handling of Parasites in Corn-Borer Control Work

More than 1,000,000 individuals of an important parasite of the European corn borer, Habrobracon brevicornis Wesmael, have been successfully reared and liberated in the densely infested area in New England. It was believed by entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture that it might be worth while to attempt to introduce it into the badly infested areas of southern Ontario. Following a suggestion to this effect made to the Dominion Entomologist, Arthur Gibson, authorization was recently given by the Canadian Government for an assistant for this purpose. This entomologist recently visited the laboratory at Arlington, Mass., to receive instruction in the technique necessary for handling the parasite, which will shortly be reared and introduced into Canada.

Several other promising parasites of the corn borer have been received from France and are being reared at the Arlington laboratory. At least one additional species will soon be ready for liberation.

ARABIA THE LAST FRONTIER

Easy of Access Though the Country Is, Much of Its Lands Still Are Unexplored.

It is a curious circumstance, when you pause to consider it, that of Arabia, whose shores are skirted almost daily for upward of 2,000 miles by tourist laden steamers, which can be reached by airplane from Cairo between breakfast and luncheon of a single day, the western world has less knowledge than it has of inner Asia or equatorial Africa or the polar regions, writes E. Alexander Powell in the World's Work. Though in area the peninsula is one-third the size of the United States, the Europeans who have penetrated its mysterious interior can be numbered on the fingers of one's two hands. Sadlier, Palgrave, Burton, Pelly, Doughty Lawrence, Leachman, Philby, and two women, Lady Anne Blunt (the granddaughter of Lord Byron) and Miss Gertrude Bell—there you have all, or nearly all, of the names that comprise the brief, intrepid list. It is the only land which has successfully defied the white man and halted the onsweep of civilization, the lives and customs of its 10,000,000 inhabitants since the world was young. It is the sole remaining country on the map considerable areas of which are still marked "unexplored." It is the last frontier.

EDUCATING THE CITY CHILD

Cow Recently Placed in New York Zoo Source of Much Delight to the Juveniles.

New York's zoo seems to be the first one to get a cow for exhibition among the "strange animals" gathered from all quarters of the globe. The cow was presented by the Dairymen's league.

So, now, no longer will city children entertain a vague idea that milk as they know it originates somehow in a bottle or a tin can. The American animal that generates milk will be right before their eyes, and, no doubt, at fixed times of day she will be milked in the presence of large and deeply interested juvenile audiences.

In St. Louis it was found that there were large numbers of children that had never seen a sheep, a somewhat smaller number that had never beheld a pig, and a very considerable percentage to whom a cow was only a picture.

A cow is, of course, as appropriate in a zoo as a bear, and ours, like others, will be graced with one. Children will learn where the milk comes from and when they are older they can visit a first-class dairy and see what is done to it to keep it wholesome.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Resourceful Actor.

This is a story told by Representative Julius Kahn of California: "The villain was to climb a ladder to a barred window in the third act and try to find his way to freedom. Then, when about to escape, he was to be shot by some one on the outside, after which he was to fall back from the ladder, exclaiming:

"'Heavens, I'm shot!' or something like that before breathing his last.

"On this occasion the revolver of the man behind the scenes who was to fire a blank cartridge didn't work, and the man filing away at the bars could not consistently fall back, exclaiming that he was shot. But he was a resourceful actor, and so he fell from the ladder at the right place, anyhow. As he did so he yelled:

"'Good heavens! I've swallowed the file!'"—New York Herald.

Jail to Be Built in New Chicago Station

Chicago.—Cook county is to have a new jail, but not for Cook county prisoners.

The jail, along with a complete chapel and a morgue, is among the municipal buildings to be contained in the miniature city that will be included in Chicago's new union station now under construction.

Most large railway stations have the usual restaurants, drug stores, cigar stores, news stands and barber shops, but the union station will have two restaurants and a cafeteria, and it will be the only station in the world, it is said, to boast a real jail.

Two cells, each completely equipped and capable of accommodating several prisoners, will be built in the basement. A reception room, heavily barred, will give access to the cells.

"Hardly a day passes without detectives, police officers and federal officers passing through Chicago with prisoners," said G. A. Allen, superintendent of construction. "Sometimes the officers have to wait nearly 24 hours for their trains, which means they must spend the 24 hours handcuffed to the prisoner. When our jail is completed the officer can receive the cell keys from the custodian, lock his prisoners in the cells and be free until train time."

The chapel will be completely furnished and equipped for funeral services, providing facilities that have long been needed in Chicago.

Horse Population Is Falling Off in U. S.

Washington.—The horse has decreased in numbers in the world at large about 11 per cent in the last ten years, according to figures made public by the Department of Agriculture, which show a falling off in the total in 85 countries from 116,500,000 to 103,550,000.

The decreases occurred largely in Russia, where the decline was nearly 50 per cent, and in the United States where the total has dropped from 23,145,000 in 1914 to 20,550,000. Russia's total of 34,700,000 has dwindled to 18,507,000.

There was a slight decrease in the number of mules and asses, of which this country's total of 5,898,000 is the largest.

In connection with the figures, however, the department reported a marked tendency in England and Wales to replace farm tractors with horse labor, the reversion being attributed to lower prices for horses, reduced upkeep and declining labor costs.

Allen Pays Election Bet Five Years Old

Topeka, Kan.—C. W. Miller, pioneer resident of Hayes, Kan., and now register of the United States land office in Topeka, was the recipient of a pair of shoes as a result of an election wager made more than five years ago with former Gov. Henry J. Allen. Miller said that Allen confided to him his desire to run for governor, but expressed fear he would lose. Miller advised him to run and proposed a wager, by which he would buy Allen a pair of shoes if Allen lost and Allen would buy Miller a pair if Allen won.

FREED BY CONFESSION

Indian After 25 Years in Prison Is Now Enjoying Wealth.

Washington, D. C.—How a half-breed Cherokee Indian, Charmer Tidwell, languished from his youth for a quarter of a century in federal prisons before being released on a baseless murder charge, was revealed in a tragic story told by the Department of Justice. Freed from the charge by a deathbed confession after his years of suffering, the former prisoner is now enjoying the wealth of inherited Oklahoma oil lands.

Three presidents, Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson, denied pardons to Tidwell upon reports from three former attorney generals, Knox, Dickerson and Gregory, that all evidence in the murder case pointed positively, although circumstantially, to the prisoner's guilt. Friends, including Senator Gore and former Representative Alice Robertson, pressed the investigation of Tidwell's continued protestations of innocence. Finally he was released form Atlanta penitentiary upon a commutation of sentence recomended by Attorney General Daugherty and Assistant Attorney General Grim.

After President Harding's commutation a widow's deathbed confession in Oklahoma revealed that Tidwell had been convicted of murdering her husband upon perjured testimony.

"The Lord has been wanting me to tell it for all these years, and I am afraid He won't forgive me for not telling it," reads the affidavit of Mrs. James Brown, the dying wife of the man for whose alleged murder Tidwell passed twenty-five years in prison in Ohio and Atlanta federal prisons.

One of Brown's sons, himself behind prison bars today, was said to have corroborated the deathbed confession of his mother, that Tidwell was convicted on perjured evidence. The man who committed the murder was said to have been a former sweetheart of Mrs. Brown and has long been dead.

Wears $250,000 Worth of Diamonds and Pearls

Quite easy to wear, in fact you can wear a quarter million dollars' worth almost as easily as one solitaire.

This is the world-famous "River of Golden Glory" 52-karat diamond made up in the form of a pendant in which 2,000 pearls and hundreds of Russian lapiz lazuli beads compose the neckpiece.

This famous jewel was once the property of Abdul Hamid and worn by him as a setting in his decoration of the Order of the Garter. He presented it to a Russian princess, who later was forced to sell it in Paris.

Miss Gilda Gray is now wearing the quarter of a million dollars' worth of blazing jewelry in a theatrical production. She wears the jewel every day, and guards are always handy to protect her.

Diamond in Throat Is Fatal to Little Girl

Geneva.—A Swiss dealer in precious stones named Dingler, while showing his five-year-old daughter some of his cases of jewels, was called to the telephone. When he returned he found the child choking. She had swallowed gems worth £800. A doctor was hastily called, but the little girl was dead, having been strangled by a diamond which entered the thorax. An operation was necessary to extract the stones from the child's throat and stomach.

Wealthy Widow Heals Man's Broken Heart

The wounded heart of J. H. Buckler, traveling salesman of Minneapolis, Minn., was healed to the extent of $500 when settlement, out of court, was reached in his suit for $50,000 damages against Mrs. Ellen Lilly, wealthy widow, who, he says, promised to marry him, but balked after he had secured the license.

Chaos Came First

A doctor, an architect, and a bolshevik were discussing the priority of their occupations.

The doctor said: "When Adam's side was opened and a rib removed to make woman, there was a surgical operation—medicine was the oldest trade."

The architect: "Yes, but when the earth was made out of chaos there was the building process, the use of materials according to a plan. The architect's is still older."

The bolshevik smiled and said: "But who supplied the chaos?"

MORE THAN ONE GOOD POINT

Uncle Jack Wanted the Fine Qualities of His Dog to Be Thoroughly Understood.

"Out in Kansas there used to be an old fellow named Uncle Jack, and he had a dog," runs the story told by Victor Murdock of the federal trade commission. "It was not a highly bred dog, but it was a wonder at catching rats. Moreover, Uncle Jack was fond of the dog. Uncle Jack had few other intimates because of a disposition to be rather savage in his conversation. He imagined that half the people he met were antagonistic toward him, and this made him not any too companionable. So it was just as well that he had a warm friend in the dog.

"One night as he and the dog were passing a corner grocery where everybody loafed, two or three bystanders sought to make a hit with Uncle Jack by complimenting his dog.

"'That's certainly a fine little dog of Uncle Jack's,' remarked one of the bystanders.

"'Yes, I don't suppose there's a better dog anywhere,' said another.

"Uncle Jack turned and glared at the bunch and hurled this:

"'Ye think he's just good for catchin' rats, eh? Well, I'll have ye know he's just as good on mice—ye goldarn fools.'"

CHASE OLD AS THE WORLD

Deep-Laid Instinct of Man and Woman Is to Go in Pursuit of the Opposite Sex.

Even the pursuit of the innocent butterfly reveals the age-old instinct of man and woman to give chase to the opposite sex. An acute observer at the University of Kansas has noted that the men and women students in certain "bugology" classes, while chasing gayly flitting butterflies, give cries that unconsciously portray their different viewpoints.

A mixed group of students was roaming the campus on Mount Oread the other day, nets in hand, ready to capture certain butterflies as specimens for classwork. Several butterflies were spied down by a big lilac hedge. The students gave chase.

"Oh, catch him, catch him," cried several of the girls excitedly, as they dashed off after a brilliantly colored victim.

"There she goes." "Get her." "She's a beaut," sounded out male voices, as the men tore out after a fluttering prospect.

It has been said that "after man came woman." But surely it is equally true that "after woman goes man."—Kansas City Star.

Mulberry Tree Slow to Leave.

Here and there in Detroit you may see trees that are not yet in leaf, although all other trees may be in full foliage, remarks the News of that city. These laggards are mulberry trees, probably the slowest of all the more common trees to bud and come to leaf in springtime. As a compensation for this, however, they remain green longer and retain their leaves later in autumn, than their sisters and brothers among the trees. When other trees have been shorn of their leaves by the frost the mulberry is still full-leafed and green. The mulberry fruit, maturing in late summer, is sometimes white, the other variety dark purple, and shaped like the blackberry. Not many housewives make use of them, as they are flat-tasting, alone, and useable only when mixed with another fruit. Birds get most of them, anyway, and robins especially love to feast on them.

King of the Ragpickers.

Retore is king of the ragpickers of Paris. He is sometimes known as the "Duke of the Morning Sidewalk." The ragpickers delve into the garbage cans lining the walks early in the morning before the crowds are out. Many of them carry lanterns. Pieces of cloth, buttons, bones, wisps of hair, bottles, and lemon peel they pick out of the cans, consigning the articles to bags carried over the shoulder. The lemon peel is sold to be used in the making of sirup. Bones are used in the making of carbon. Bottles are sold to the druggists. Wisps of hair are manufactured into "rats" for milady. Retore, the king, is a czar among the ragpickers. He allots to each a certain number of streets and collects his daily toll from the profits of his subjects.

Would Make an Artificial Volcano.

Nature failed to provide Glacier National park with a volcano, so oil men of Shelby, Mont., contemplate piping natural gas from the Kevin-Sunburst oil field, 60 miles away, to a park mountain, where they will sink a shaft from summit to base, connect it up and touch it off. It is pointed out that little use is now being made of the 11,000,000 cubic feet of gas which is produced daily by two wells in the oil field. The promoters of this novel scheme explain that the intense heat generated by the burning of a large quantity of gas in the mountain shaft would soon melt the rock formation to such an extent that a surprisingly realistic volcanic crater would be formed.

Where His Thoughts Were.

John's mother was helping him dress for Sunday school and at the same time questioning him about his Sunday school lesson.

"John, what must one do to be saved?" she asked.

The small boy's thoughts were down at the river, where he hoped to go fishing soon, and he answered promptly:

"Learn to swim."

HOW NOVELIST SPENDS CASH

Sir James Barrie Evidently One of Those Who Believe in "Doing Good by Stealth."

Sir James Barrie who wrote "My Lady Nicotine" and so many of the world's most beautiful stories, was an intimate friend of the heroic explorer Scott, who perished in the Antarctic after reaching the South pole. The author believed in the sailor and helped to finance his last tragic dash for the South pole. When his effects were examined amid the frigid and ghastly Antarctic stillness, the relief party that arrived too late found a letter for Barrie among the dead man's effects. Only Barrie knew what it unfolded. Since that time he has been a second father to the orphaned boy. Speaking of little Peter Scott, the author of "Peter Pan" said, "That little chap has given me a hard task. I must send him a new poem or a freshly conceived fairy tale every week." One of Barrie's favorite adopted sons, the original of David in "The Little White Bird," was killed in action near Ypres. As a memorial to him Barrie established and supported a hospital in France until the end of the war. His name was never associated with it and hardly a dozen people in England knew of this benefaction.

ALWAYS STUDYING THE SKY

Work Has Been Made Much Easier Since the Introduction of Celestial Photography.

There continues the discovery of asteroids or minor planets, especially with the aid afforded by celestial photography. Among a vast multitude of stars crowding on a photographic plate one, perhaps, will be seen to have drawn a short, thin line on the plate during its hours of exposure. The astronomer knows at once that it is either an asteroid or a comet. Subsequent observations soon decide the point. Only the more interesting ones are afterward observed with attention, but once discovered they cannot be ignored, and the rapid growth of the flock becomes an embarrassment.

Eros, which at times approaches the earth nearer than any other regular member of the solar system except the moon, and Asteroid No. 585, which at aphelion is more distant than Jupiter, as far as their orbits are concerned, remain the most interesting members of the entire group and are kept under constant observation whenever circumstances permit.

Medical Efficiency.

Dr. Leroy C. Crummer of Omaha attended the medical convention in this city. He was describing the 100 per cent efficiency methods in vogue among the newer Western physicians.

"A patient of mine visited one of these doctors," he said. "After he shook hands with the chief he turned him over to an assistant, who took his history. Next he was hustled into the office of an X-ray specialist. From there he passed to a laboratory technician, then to a blood expert, and finally to the nerve clinic.

"When he returned to the chief doctor he was curtly told the pile of reports showed that there was nothing the matter with him."

"How about my bill?" queried the patient.

"On, you must see my accountant for that," replied the doctor, ushering him out.

"Well, really, doctor, I should like to pay you personally," replied the patient, "for then I would have the satisfaction of knowing that you did at least one thing in my case."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Conquering Yesser.

"After fifteen years of incessant guerrilla warfare, he had conquered his wife; there was something in the number of 'yes's' with which he could poison a conversation that had won him the victory. 'Yes—yes—yes—yes,' he would say. 'That was the summer of ninety-one or ninety-two—yes—yes—yes—yes.' Fifteen years of yes's had beaten Mrs. Gilbert. Fifteen further years of that incessant, unaffirmative affirmative, accompanied by the perpetual flicking of ash-mushrooms from 32,000 cigars, had broken her. To this husband of hers she made the last concession of married life, which is more complete, more irrevocable, than the first—she listened to him."—From the "Beautiful and Damned," by F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Garden Annual Coming Back.

The Russian Statice, Statice Suworowi, is an old-time garden annual which has ben neglected for many years but is again coming back, and strangely enough as a greenhouse plant, although it is an easily grown garden annual. It differs from the sinuata type in having long branching spikes closely set with tiny rose pink flowers. The leaves lie flat upon the ground, somewhat resembling a plantain seed spike until the flowers expand and the branches develop. It is a very unusual-appearing plant and very decorative for cutting, especially when arranged with the loosely branched lavender varieties.—Exchange.

Really Seemed a Miracle.

My strangest and never-to-be-forgotten affair happened when my boy, aged seven, fell from the third floor when the porch railing gave way. He landed on his feet, got up and walked away uninjured. Neighbors seeing him fall say nothing but a miracle saved him.—Chicago Journal.

NO GREEN PAPER ENVELOPES

Ban Placed on Them by Official of the Post Office Department Is to Stand.

American business men frequently run up against some federal regulation or other which temporarily vexes them because they feel that it is a governmental infringement upon their way of doing business, even though the matter is generally trivial. They do not realize that oftentimes this regulation is for their own advantage or in the interest of human welfare.

A good illustration of this has just been found by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce and the Post Office department, and the explanation has caused the business concerns interested to agree most heartily that the federal regulation should stand.

This illustration was with regard to the use of green paper in "window envelopes," which are now extensively utilized by American business houses.

A circular, issued last January by the office of the third assistant postmaster general, says that "the stationery used in window envelopes, or at least that portion upon which the address appears, must be white or, if colored, of a very light tint or shade. The use of dark-colored stationery is not permissible."

The rules and regulations division of the Post Office department states that "green is probably the most difficult color for the mail distributors to handle under the trying conditions under which they have to work."

HADN'T CAUGHT THE MEANING

Headline Writer Might Have Done Better to Have Glanced Over That Fish Story.

Edwin E. Slosson, director of Science service, Washington, tells this story in the New York Herald:

"Those who read anything more of the newspapers than the large type at the top of the columns will have observed that copy readers do not always take the trouble to read the articles to which they provide headlines. Just so artists do not read the stories which they illustrate and publishers do not read their books before writing the blurb for the slip cover. All the headline inventor seems to care about is getting the proper number of words in the line without regard to what the letters mean.

"A few years ago it was discovered that ponds and streams could be kept free from wigglers by breeding minnows in them, and that this was a good way to prevent the growth of the anopheles mosquitoes which carry the malarial fever microbe. The information was given out to the press by the United States Fish commission in an article headed, 'Fish Prevent Malaria.'

"But one editor, finding that this was too short for his line and feeling the need of adding a practical touch, filled out the head so as to read 'Fish Prevent Malaria: Eat More Fish.'"

Architects and the Pipe.

Do all architects smoke pipes?

That was the question that struck outsiders at the fifty-sixth annual convention of the American Institute of Architects held at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, Washington, recently.

Nearly every other architect had a big pipe clinched between his teeth. Cigars were in the minority, and cigarettes nowhere.

Just why this was no architect present could explain, unless it was as one of them said, "Oh, I guess we just like a pipe best."

Maybe architects smoke pipes because there is less likelihood that fire will fall onto the drawing board. Or do successful architects draw no more?

Uses Ancient Legacy.

An epidemic of witch-burning in New England occurred about 1690. A number of eccentric old women were denounced and put to death. Those days are linked with modern Harvard by the realization recently of a legacy left the university 223 years ago by Lieut. Gov. William Stoughton, who condemned and also pardoned many of the convicted witches. He was a member of the Harvard class of 1650. Stoughton hall perpetuates his memory. He died in 1700, leaving 23 acres of pasture to his old college. Part of this land has at length been sold to Boston city and scholarships will be established with the proceeds.

Different!

Persons who are bothered by bores in trains and on boats are recommended to try the following method of squelching unsought conversation: A student traveling in England and wishing to make up for lost time by reading was very much annoyed by the man opposite, who insisted on keeping the conversation afloat. He was determined to exhaust every possibility offered by the weather.

"The grass is very green, isn't it?" inquired the would-be conversationalist, cheerfully.

"Yes," said the student, savagely; "such a change from the red and blue grass we've been having lately."

Unfortunate.

"One night last week Dab Sockett came home from some'rs at about two o'clock in the morning," related Dug Differdang of Clapboard Springs. "After some jowering his wife up and shot him b'cuz he wouldn't tell whur he'd been at."

"I reckon she's mighty sorry by this time?" returned 'Lije Lazzenberry.

"You betcha! Now he's dead, and can't tell."—Kansas City Star.

How Good Public Relations are Not Built

A story known as the "bedbug story" is going the rounds among after-dinner speakers which has a good moral for utility public relations men. A man encountered bedbugs in a sleeping car, so the story runs, and wrote a very indignant and scathing letter to the proper official. A kindly, courteous letter of apology, with an explanation that the occurrence was most unusual and that every precaution was taken against it, was received, which made the indignant passenger feel that there were some real people in the world after all. Then he discovered his original letter attached to the reply, and across it was written in blue pencil: "Send this guy the bedbug letter." The complainant's state of feeling can be imagined better than described.

The "bedbug letter" type of public relations work, which has only been hung on the sleeping car as a conveninet vehicle, is the reason why some men make a failure of winning the public. Good public relations are built only on sympathetic feeling, an ability to understand the other fellow's problems and an earnest effort to prevent the incidents that build ill-will. The "send this guy" attitude strikes a note of insincerity which, when discovered, makes existing ill-will twice as bitter. Form letters, set rules for pacifying a complaining public and all such devices are a failure. Personal contact and efforts to correct bad situations mean endless work and sometimes drudgery, as well as the most rigid personal honesty, but they are the important factors in keeping on good terms with the public. (Editorial, Electrical World.)

The new law of Holland relative to the slaughtering of animals compels humane stunning, not only in private, but in all public abattoirs. By the new law it is forbidden to attempt to stun by "a blow upon the head, or behind the ears," to begin dressing before the "body is completely inert," to "hang up before stunning." The stunning must always be "by means of devices with which in some mechanical way the brain is destroyed." Exception is made where Hebrews slaughter.

"A man doesn't have to be much of an authority on driving a car to know that it's a heap-sight better to be careful than to wish afterwards that you had been. Carelessness, not recklessness, causes most of the accidents."
(The Traffic Officer)

Says the Veteran Motorist:

"I WANT to say right here that the attitude most motorists have toward the traffic officer is absolutely wrong. The majority of drivers imagine that he is always out to get them. Nothing of the sort.

"His job is to keep the highways safe for everybody. He's out to keep you from endangering the lives and limbs of others. And he's out just as hard and just as long to keep the other fellow from banging you up. He may call you down one minute and then save you a nasty smash-up at the hands of some novice or dare-devil just behind you.

"One of the best scouts I ever met is a traffic officer and a few incidents that he and others have told me make me feel like taking my hat off to the whole bunch of them. If you want my honest opinion of it, I think it's a wonder that they manage to keep so courteous, considerate and fair—considering what they have to put up with day in and day out."

A Little Out of the Way But It Pays to Walk

Shawsheen Wins Over Melrose 7 to 3

The Shawsheen A. A. won their holiday afternoon game from the Melrose Town team in two innings when they knocked Harris the first visiting pitcher to oppose them from the mound. They registered seven runs off Harris, their sum total for the afternoon. The final score was 7 to 3. Busby who replaced Harris was very effective, allowing but a single tally in the eight innings that he worked.

H. Harrison, Dushame and Don Smith led the Shawsheen A. A. attack. Harrison collected two triples and Smith doubled twice, while Dutch Dushame poked out an opportune triple. The fielding feature of the game was turned in by Brooksie Harrison when he turned in a spectacular catch in left that cut short a Melrose rally.

THOUSANDS TO ATTEND

Grand Field Day by American Woolen Company Employees in Shawsheen Village Saturday

All plans have been completed and everything is in readiness for the gigantic field day to be held by the employees of the American Woolen Company in its four mills in Lawrence, the mill and the brush factory in Shawsheen Village, and those of the Riverina Mills in Medford and of the Boston Office, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock on Balmoral Field, Shawsheen Village. All the employees of the Company and their friends are cordially invited to attend as all the games and sports will be entirely free. The grounds will be open to everybody. No admission of any kind will be charged. The event is entirely for the employees of the Company and their many friends.

Close to 1200 entries for the various events have been received and many exciting contests will be held. There are games and sports for everybody and some very valuable prizes will be awarded the winners in the various competitions. Events for men, women and children will be on the program.

The program will be under the joint auspices of the Overseers' Associations of the various mills and the General Advisory Committee of Employees. Those in charge from the overseers are: Washington Mills, Overseers Wilde and Hadfield, and Charles Pittochelli; Wood Mills, Overseers Wolfindale and Edgar Wilson, and Mrs. Lillian Emmott; Ayer Mills, Overseers Freeman and Lund, and Charles Ramsay; Prospect Mills, Overseer Walsh, and Irene Demers; Shawsheen Mills, Overseers Horman and Cutin.

The judges will be Harry Pratt, Frank H. Paige, James J. Newell, and Paul Rice. The clerk of course will be Howard O. Frye, editor of the American Woolen Company Booster; and Daniel F. Daly will be announcer.

The register of the various events will be Michael J. Ryan, assisted by Martha Labonte of the Department of Labor of the Company.

The awarding of prizes will be done by Miss Lena Cook, lady member of the Department of Labor, assisted by Katherine MacNulty and Rose Mercier.

The arrangements for the safety of all in attendance will be in charge of Safety Engineer Howard L. Cates, while Employment Manager John F. Haffner and his staff, comprising Howard Chipman, John Kotze, and Herbert Barron, will have charge of the police arrangements.

John MacDonald of Shawsheen Village has arranged the grounds and put everything in readiness for the games and sports.

Throughout the afternoon, the American Woolen Company Band will discourse popular music under the leadership of Rudolph Meyer, while the Kiltie Band will also be heard in another section of the great field. Thomas Bruce is the leader of that organization, while Thomas Parry will be the drum major.

Dr. A. G. Griffin of Shawsheen Village, assisted by Mrs. Marcella Sidri, nurse, will be on the field all the afternoon, subject to call by anyone in need of their services.

Through the courtesy of Garfield Chase, local manager of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company, extra cars will run from Essex street to the Balmoral Field, Shawsheen Village, and return, from 1.30 o'clock during the afternoon and early evening. This courtesy was extended last year and greatly pleased the many in attendance at the games.

The mill winning the greatest number of points will be awarded the beautiful silver cup and trophy which was won last year by the Wood Mills and has been retained until now by Agent Lamont. There is great rivalry among the various mills of the Company for the trophy, and the contests will be hotly contested. The Wood Mill folks say they intend to retain the cup by winning the greatest number of points.

Prominent among the events are the following:

For men: 880, 440, 220, and 100-yard races; high and broad jumps, hurdles and barrel races; tug of war and fat men's race.

For the women: 100, 75, and 50-yard races; hurdle races; broad and high jumps; baseball throw; stout ladies' race.

There will also be a 100-yard race for boys between the ages of 14 and 16 years.

The American Woolen Company Chorus will render selections and various stunts of an amusing nature will be held during the afternoon. Thousands of people will be attracted to Balmoral Field and a most enjoyable afternoon is in store for all who attend.

Shawsheen Loses to Boston Teams

The Boston Bowling Green Club were the victors in a match with Shawsheen Saturday, winning all four rinks. A return match will be played on the Boston Green, Saturday, July 14.

After the contest, supper was served at the Shawsheen Restaurant. The president and secretary of the National association were present and gave short talks on the progress the game has made in this country during the past year, saying that last year at the national tournament only eleven teams competed and this year at Hartford it is expected that at least sixty-five will enter the contest.

State Soccer Meeting

The annual State Soccer Meeting held in the American House, Boston, Saturday afternon brought out a large number of delegates from all over the State and was also featured by a large attendance of interested soccer enthusiasts who had travelled to take in the meeting. It was an impressive audience that listened to Percy Wilson deliver his welcome address upon taking up his duties after being elected as next president of the State Association over John Haggas by five votes, the vote being 18 to 13 when the count was taken.

The meeting opened at 2.45 p.m. with Vice President David Eaton in the chair, who officiated until President Charles M. Burnett arrived, half way through the session.

Under the reports of committees, George M. Collins gave an excellent account of the doings at the National convention held in Cleveland, while Secretary Archie M. Neilson and Treasurer Samuel McAuley impressed their hearers with their reports on the season's workings and presented books very minutely put together, giving a detailed account of all receipts and expenses of the delegates present. For their good work and endeavor Archie M. Neilson was granted an honorarium of $75.00 while Samuel McAuley was granted a sum of $25.00.

The principal business of the meeting and one that was of great local interest was the election of officers for the coming season of 1923-24, with several local soccer men out seeking office.

Two nominations for president found Percy Wilson and John Haggas in the field, both Lawrence boys, evidently both had been working hard for the office as when the vote was taken, it was close, with Wilson leading 18 to 13.

Eaton and Hamilton were elected over their opponents as first and second vice presidents respectively; the vote taken was Hamilton 19, Eaton 17.

For the office of secretary, Archie Neilson was elected, and appointed William Welch as his assistant. For treasurer, Samuel McAuley of Holyoke was re-elected without opposition.

For delegates-at-large with three seats to be filled, Duncan McLaughlin led over a large feld of contestants with 20 votes; Charles M. Burnett with 17 votes, and William Welch with 15, were also elected. John MacDonald of Shawsheen was among the number seeking this office and was beaten by only two votes.

Percy Wilson upon taking the chair gave a glowing address, which met with a fine response from his audience. He was honored with a pleasant duty of presenting Past President Charles Burnett with a State medal as an appreciation for his good work during the last term, Burnett replying with some very appropriate remarks.

The meeting was a lengthy one and did not come to an adjournment until 8.15 p.m., and was one of the most interesting for years, with the race for officers close and interesting. The election of Percy Wilson and David Eaton pleases many soccer enthusiasts in this section.

Archibald Adams, president of the New England Bowling Green Association, and George MacKenzie of the Roselawn Bowling Green Club of Pawtucket, R. The ubiquity of the common microorganisms, whether in the torrid zones or in the icy north and south, is phenomenal. Samples collected by explorers contain many familiar species of bacteria. In previously untouched soils and in the contents of the intestine of arctic animals, is found a motley group of bacteria, yeasts and molds, most of them familiar to us of the more contaminated zones. There is no escape from bacteria.

SUCCESSFUL CELEBRATION

Observance of Glorious Fourth Lasts from Midnight to Midnight—Shawsheen Wins Over Melrose

One of the most successful affairs ever held in the vicinity was the Fourth of July celebration at Shawsheen Village. The celebration commenced "the night before" when hundreds of people danced until after midnight at Balmoral Garden to the strains of Sinclair's Balmoral orchestra.

On the morning of the Fourth the Horrible Parade was held, starting from the Post Office at 8.00 o'clock and proceeding to Poor, William, North Main, Haverhill, Stirling, Sutherland, Dumbarton, Haverhill, Argyle, Carisbrooke, York, and Balmoral street to Balmoral Field where it was reviewed by the judges and prizes awarded. The parade was a good one and the judges found it difficult to pick the winners as all the characters were so well taken off. Alden Coolidge as "Otto Grow" created a great deal of amusement and was the winner of first prize in the children's group. A number of trucks owned by the American Woolen Company were decorated by the drivers and entered in the parade. The Harig Motor Car Company offered three prizes for the three best trucks.

The winners were as follows:

ADULTS

First, "In the Good Old Days"— Coach driven by James Williams and Daniel Haggerty, passengers, Ralph Fredrickson and Sarah Clark.

Second, "Shawsheen's Greatest Crop" — Paul Rice and Douglas Donald.

Third, "Haverhill Street Commissioner"— Matthew Burns.

CHILDREN

First, "Otto Grow" — Alden Coolidge.

Second, "Shawsheen Indian" — Malcolm Burns.

Third, "Devil" — Arthur Ennis.

TRUCKS

First, Frank Regan.

Second, A. Melamed.

Third, William Vincent.

Immediately following the parade the sporting events were held on the athletic field under the direction of Paul Rice. Many children entered for all the events and several heats had to be run off for each race.

The results were as follows:

Potato race for boys — Oscar Lodter, first; Donald Bansley, second; Arthur Ennis, third.

Three-legged race for girls — Germaine Hamel and Isabel Rennie, first; Katherine and Margaret Riley, second; and Roberta Todd and Jane Ritchie, third.

Sack race for boys — Oscar Lodter, first; Delmar Martell, second; Edgar Best, third.

50-yd. dash for girls under 12 — Agnes Rennie, first; Margaret Riley, second; Isabel Rennie, third.

50-yd. dash for girls over 12 — Mary Williams, first; Germaine Hamel, second; Katherine Riley, third.

Shoe race — Agnes Rennie, first; Murray Mercer, second; Mary Ruxton, third.

Potato race for girls — Margaret Riley, first; Geraldine Nelson, second; Minnie Catanzaro, third.

Obstacle race for boys — Albert Hamel, first; Frederick Clark, second; Bernard Riley, third.

100-yd. dash for boys — Elmer Grover, first; Albert Hamel, second; Oscar Lodter, third; and William Mahoney, fourth.

100-yd. dash for girls — Germaine Hamel and Thelma Dodge tied for first; Margaret Riley and Roberta Todd tied for second, and Agnes Rennie and Mary Ruxton tied for third.

The baseball game between Shawsheen and Melrose was fast and interesting and resulted in a 7 to 3 victory for the local team.

In the evening the American Woolen company band gave a concert from 8 to 10 o'clock. At nine o'clock the fireworks were displayed on the athletic field before a large gathering.

Dancing was held at Balmoral Garden from 8 to 12 o'clock.

The committee in charge of the celebration was: Frank H. Hardy, Robert M. Nelson, C. W. Coolidge, Thomas Bredbury and Matthew Burns.

Riverina Mill Defeats Washington

The Washington Mill team was defeated in the inter-mill championship series by the Riverina Mills of Medford at Balmoral Field Saturday, by the score of 23 to 5. Deke Deardon was knocked out of the box in the fifth and Bob Tyrell, who followed him on the mound, fared but little better.

The locals could not do much with Sullivan, the Boston College pitcher, who twirled for the visitors. The Washingtons lost their chance for the championship. The score:

Shawsheen and North Andover Tied for Lead

Standing of the Clubs:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Shawsheen A. A.	20	10	.667
No. Andover club	20	10	.667
Canoe club	17	13	.567
Country club	3	27	.100

The final scheduled matches of the Tennis League of Greater Lawrence were played off Monday night, North Andover taking three points to Shawsheen Village two, and the Canoe club four points to the Country club one. This brings about a tie for first place at twenty won and ten lost, between Shawsheen Village and North Andover. The play-off for the championship will be arranged at a meeting this week, at which Stephen N. Mason will represent the North Andover club, Howard O. Frye, the Shawsheen A. A. and George D. Morrison the league. It is probable that a five-match tournament will be played on the Canoe club courts between the league leaders, the winner of three points to take the Eagle Tribune cup.

At the North Andover courts, before a large gallery, Shawsheen and North Andover put on a tournament that was interesting from the first stroke. The feature match was that between the veteran Curley and his younger opponent Higgins. The Shawsheen team had lost two points before this match was finished and finally, with the score one-all in sets, six-five in games on the last set, Higgins sent over a sizzling serve for an ace, winning point, set and match. Then within a few minutes Higgins, teaming with Paine for the doubles, went in and won two sets from Redman and Whitehead for the tying point.

SINGLES

Rockwell, N. A. C., beat McGrath, S. V. A. A., 6-3, 6-3.

Redman, N. A. C., beat Paine, S. V. A. A., 6-4, 6-4.

Higgins, S. V. A. A., beat Curley, N. A. C., 6-4, 8-10, 7-5.

DOUBLES

Rockwell and Kemp, N. A. C., beat McGrath and Pratt, S. V. A. A., 6-4, 6-3.

Paine and Higgins, S. V. A. A., beat Redman and Whitehead, N. A. C., 6-2, 6-0.

In the first match of singles, Rockwell for North Andover, playing his usual accurate, brainy game, had McGrath running the corners, and although McGrath made some wonderful gets, and played a good game, he was kept on the defense through the match, Rockwell's placements and kills winning in straight sets.

Redman and Paine had a good match, with two sets at six-four, in the first set Paine started out like a winner, winning the first, second, fourth and fifth games, but Redman working hard came through from one-four to win at six-four. In the second set Redman took the net. It was close, and at one time it looked as if the set was going to deuce. With games four-five, Paine serving, game score 30-40, Redman shot the ball into the net, bringing the game to deuce, but Redman came through for the next two points for match.

The Higgins-Curley match, which started first, was still going on. The first set at six-four brought out some long rallies, Higgins' speed winning for him. The second set, with both players after every point, and the gallery following every play, went to eighteen games before Curley won at ten-eight. After a short rest, they resumed play for the third set, and this set went to deuce before Higgins could win. Higgins started out strong winning the first three, Curley then took the next three, then winning on their own service brought the set to deuce. Higgins then broke through Curley's service for the eleventh game, and with his own speedy service working well in the twelfth, he sent over an ace for the final point. It was a battle.

In the doubles, Rockwell and Kemp in beating McGrath and Pratt played a pretty game. Rockwell's generalship and placing backed by Kemp's speedy play had the Shawsheen team always on the defense. The North Andover team won in straight sets without much difficulty. The final match of doubles, with Paine and Higgins playing for Shawsheen, and Redman and Whitehead for North Andover was followed closely, for this point if won by North Andover would give them the championship. The Shawsheen team came through grandly, winning the first set at six-two, they went into the second set with every prospect of a play-off, as they did not start play in the final set until 8.20. Paine and Higgins working together splendidly finished the match up in straight games winning six-love, for point that tied the league standing.

At the Canoe club courts, the home team took four points, winning everything except one match in doubles.

SINGLES

Ford, L. C. C., beat Sawyer, M. V. C. C., 6-0, 6-0.

Neilson, L. C. C., beat Howe, M. V. C. C., 6-2, 6-3.

Hadley, L. C. C., beat Stone, M. V. C. C., 6-4, 6-4.

DOUBLES

Ford and Neilson, L. C. C., beat Stone and Eichler, M. V. C. C., 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

Sawyer and McAllister, M. V. C. C., beat Cleveland and Hart L. C. C. 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

The feature was the doubles match in which the Country-club team won. The two doctors, Dr. McAllister and Dr. Sawyer, for the Country club, after losing the first set at three-six, won the next reversing the score, and then took the last deuce set at seven-five. Dr. Sawyer steadied down in this match and teaming well with Dr. McAllister, playing his old time game, the Country club team showed some good tennis. In the other doubles match Stone and Eichler almost talked themselves into a win, but Ford and Neilson came through for the last set. The singles matches were all won in straight sets.
